SOUGHT WORLD DOMINION; WINS WORLD HATRED

Kaiser and His Power Completely Crushed by Hosts of Civilization.

PLUNGED WORLD INTO WAR

Once Mightiest of Monarchs Leads His People From Peace and Prosperity Into Ruin - Insane Dream Ends With His Abdication.

William Hehenzollern, German emperor and king of Prussia, has abdicated.

He was:

William II, German emperor and king of Prussia, sole arbiter over the fate of 70,000,000 men, women and children; commander in chief of the German army and navy, and supreme war lord; overlord of four kingdoms, six grand duchies, five duchies, seven principalities, three "free towns" and one "reichsland," Alsace-Lorraine, virtual owner of 208,780 square miles with a total frontier length of 4,570 miles; owner of dependencies in various parts of the globe aggregating 1,027,820 square miles and 12,000,000 natives.

Now, and ever after, he is: Herr Willielm Hohenzollern-by the grace of his people. A dream of world dominion obsessing the mind of Emperor William plunged the world into war. Upon him and the tremendous military engine of destruction of which he was the embodiment, the exponent and the leader, rests the responsibility of deliberately planning and bringing about the greatest conflict the world has ever seep.

Sought World Dominion.

He signed the order for the German mobilization. He stood sponsor for the terrorism and brigandage which, under the guise of warfare, ravished Belgium, laid waste the cities of France, depopulated and outraged Serbla and sent the Lusitania with her freight of women and children to a CROSS, FEVERISH grave in the Atlantic.

Against these his cry "I did not will the war" availed as nothing. Before HURRY, MOTHER! REMOVE POIthe bar of humanity William was adjudged guilty of the greatest crime since the crucifixion. In him humanity saw the last of the autocrats, the GIVE CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS final Caesar.

Assertions that he was at heart peaceful, so persistently circulated for years as to give them the stamp of German propoganda, became branded us false. He who had long proclaimed himself the prince of peace stood rerealed as humanity's scourge.

Claims Almighty as His Ally.

Many doubt whether William was entirely sane. He said repeatedly that he possessed a divine mandate to rule. that the Almighty was his "unconditional and avowed ally." It is not entirely clear whether such outgivings were the product of a disordered brain ne to unbounded egotism and an effort to impress his subjects with the idea of reverent and unquestioning submission. Look at the tongue, mother! If

His speches to his armies in which he asserted he and they were "instruments of divine judgment upon Germany's enemies" were segarded by many outside of Germany as pieces of rhetoric, intended only to deceive his own people.

Few statesmen realized that the emperor in his "shining armor," maneuvering his armies and fleets, building up the German military system, cementing the central empires and Turkey, and fostering the preaching of the supremacy of autocracy, was erecting a machine that one day would make war upon all civilization.

Yet the world was warned by some far-sighted men that the emperor would one day bring catastrophe upon the nations. These men saw in him then and see him now as a mad inventor, given in his youth the most dangerous of all toys-his army and navy. They were his playthings. He developed them throughout the years to the point where he had to put them to a test. Like a crazed inventor, he feared the end of his reign would find any other kind with contempt.-Adv. his inventions untried, so grasped the first opportunity to wage a world war.

Seizes Pretense to Open War.

Meantime the German war party grew, with William at its head, and the scheme of world dominion awaited the hour to begin its attainment. It came with the assassination of the Austrian Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife at Sarajevo.

Recalled from a yachting trip, William presided at a conference at Potsdam of representatives of the German and Austrian armies, navies and commercial interests. There, according to the best information obtainable, the decision was reached to make the assassination of the archduke a pretense for the world war for which Germany had long prepared.

In the diplomatic exchanges between Germany and Austria on one side and Great Britain, France and Russia on he other William posed as one wishing tor peace but driven to war. He signed the order for the mobilization of the German army, and from that moment war was inevitable, Publication of the "Willy-Nicky" correspondence in 1917 placed the Ger-can emperor in the light of an unscru pulous plotter. The telegrams disclosed that Emperor William had induced Emperor Nicholas of Russia to sign a secret agreement to which he was to force the adherence of France in the perfection of an offensive and defensive alliance against England. The treaty was discovered and repudiated by a Russian minister.

Failing in his attempt, the German emperor set upon himself the task of drawing England to his side against France and Russia.

How well he thought he had succeeded in this may be gathered from a letter he wrote to President Wilson in 1914 in which he said King George had promised Prince Henry of Prussia, on July 29, 1914, that England would remain neutral in a war involving the central powers with France and Rus-

Lichnowsky Shows Up Intrigue.

Perhaps the most direct and authoritative of the accusations against the German emperor and the pan-Germans are contained in the published secret memorandum of Prince Charles Max Lichnowsky, who was German ambassador at Loadon at the outbreak of hostilities.

The prince unequivocally placed the blame for the war on Germany, and for his frankness was imprisoned in a Silesian chateau, permanently expelled from the Prussian house of lords, which action was sanctioned by the emperor, and finally was exiled to Switzerland.

Emperor William's domination over German statesmen, diplomats and the high command of the German army was emphasized by Dr. Withelm Muchlon, a former director of the Krupp works, the great German munitions factory, in his book on "The Devistation of Europe," In this he not only laid blame upon Germany for had faith and criticized the German army for its brutality but asserted that in the German foreign office "only be who did the emperor's bidding was allowed to remain." "They could not do better." he declared, "because of the character, the power, the vascillation of and continued interference by

It was Doctor Muchlon who asserted the authenticity of the statement that Emperor William stated at a meeting of German army officers that he had plenty of prisoners and that he hoped the officers would see that no more prisoners were taken.

Maximilian Harden, a German liberal leader, declared the German ruler brought on the war because of his desire "for something like world rule."

"No Nonsense From Us."

The emperor, despite his previous expressions of good will for America, gave vent to his anger against the United States when it became evident no official action would be taken to stop the shipment of munitions and supplies to the entente allies by declaring to the American ambassador, James W. Gerard, "I shall stand no nonsense from America after the war."

William's designs to spread German dominion in Asia found expression in his famous visits to Constantinople when he was proclaimed as protector of the Moslems. In this the world saw a cunning step toward achievement of the German ambition of German dominion from Berlin to Bagdad.

Friedrich Wilhelm Victor Albert was born January 27, 1859, and became Emperor William II on the death of his father, Frederick III, June 15, 1888. came out of the University of Bonn fully prepared to enter the school of another way of saying that he who statecraft. Set to work in the government bureaus, he was early taught the routine of official business under the tutelage of the great Bismarck.

At the death of his father, the imperial throne devolved upon William II. who was then but twenty-nine years of age. Bismarck continued as chancellor, but not for long.

In 1890 the disagreement of the two men reached a crisis, a rupture came and Bismarck went. The relations be tween the two men remained strained for several years, but before Bismarck died peace was made between them.

Stickler for Military Etiquette.

With the passing of Bismarck the emperor's real reign began. As a milltary man he was a stickler for efficiency, discipline and the observance of etiquette to the last detail. And with the details of all these components of army life and training he was familiar to the smallest point.

In everything he was described as thorough and, withal, one of the hardest workers in the empire.

Physically unimpressive—he was short and inclined to stoutness-William was fond of being photographed while striking a military posture, though taking good care to veil the deformity of his left arm, a disfigurement with which he was born and of which he was extremely sensitive. He blamed his English mother for living a life of self-indulgence and cursed her repeatedly as being responsible for his deformity.

He married Augusts Victoria, oldest daughter of Grand Duke Frederick of Schleswig - Holstein - Sonderburg - Augustenburg, on February 27, 1881. They had six sons and one daughter, of whom the Crown Prince Frederick is the eldest. With the crown prince, his father clashed frequently, and on one occasion virtually exiled young Frederick to Dantzig, but soon recalled

German mothers who wrote to the peror of the deaths of their cons killed in battle elicited from him no word of sympathy. He regarded their denths as "glorious." Yet his own six sons, though holding high commands, were so protected that the imperial family stood practically alone in all Germany in warding off the clutches
